Subject: China secures Grace Blackwell and H200 chips. Russian spy suspected to be behind stolen Nvidia technology. Ten Chinese military cargo planes were seen flying into Russia.

Status: Heightened

Event: It has been confirmed that China has secured an estimated 240,000 Grace Blackwell and H200 chips. These are advanced AI software chips that the US had previously blocked China from purchasing. At 8:00 this morning, it was discovered that Alice Huang, the women concluded to be having relations with former Nvidia CEO Jensen Huang, is a registered Russian citizen and an intelligence agent for Russia. Not for China like previously expected. Later this afternoon at 14:00, ten Chinese military cargo planes were seen flying into Russia.

Action: It is recommended that the United States deploy more ships and troops to Japan as well as South Korea. The United States should urge NATO to send troops to Ukraine, or at least Poland. Steps need to be taken to prepare for further Russian/Chinese military aggression and collaboration.
